

UC SANTA BARBARA

THE Current

April 13, 2005

Joan Magruder

UCSB Historian Wins Prestigious Guggenheim Award

Sharon Ann Farmer, professor of history at UC Santa Barbara, is among the 186 artists, scholars, and scientists from the United States and Canada to receive prestigious Guggenheim fellowships for 2005.

Farmer will use her Guggenheim stipend of $37,000 to continue her research project, a monograph entitled "Oriental luxuries, Parisian crafts, and the making of Europe's fashion capital."

Guggenheim Fellows are selected on the basis of distinguished achievement in the past and exceptional promise for future accomplishment.

"I am examining the material and symbolic culture of 13th and 14th century English and French aristocratic and royal courts through the lens of Parisian commerce and industry," Farmer says.

Recently, Farmer also received a National Endowment for the Humanities Award for her research, one of only 195 scholars nationwide, which includes a stipend of $40,000 over a nine to 12 month period.

NEH fellowships support individuals pursuing advanced research that contributes to the understanding of the humanities.

"I will be using the NEH award for a sabbatical leave during the 2005-2006 academic year, and the Guggenheim for a sabbatical leave during the 2007-2008 academic year," she says.

Farmer, who received her Ph.D. from Harvard University in 1983, has been a member of the UCSB history faculty since 1986.

Related Links

Sharon Farmer's Web Page

---

About UC Santa Barbara

The University of California, Santa Barbara is a leading research institution that also provides a comprehensive liberal arts learning experience. Our academic community of faculty, students, and staff is characterized by a culture of interdisciplinary collaboration that is responsive to the needs of our multicultural and global society. All of this takes place within a living and learning environment like no other, as we draw inspiration from the beauty and resources of our extraordinary location at the edge of the Pacific Ocean.